

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A method of increasing the relative number of CD45 low cells in a cell population is described. The method comprises contacting a more committed cell with an agent that causes the more committed cell to retrodifferentiate into an undifferentiated cell, which undifferentiated cell is a CD45 low cell.